OUTLINES.

Owing to the tight money market and consequent inability to renew loans to pay operating expenses, receivers were yesterday appointed for the Arnold Print Works, of North Adams, Mass., one of the largest textile establishments in the United States. The company employs 6,000 hands, and its liabilities are $8,680,935——Owing to the arrival of $7,000,000 of gold in New York on Tuesday, the financial situation is improved and stocks and bonds called for better prices yesterday——The Maryland Democrats elected Judge Austin L. Crothers governor by about 7,000 plurality, and chose Ex-Governor Smith for the short-term United States Senatorship——In New Jersey it turns out that Judge Fort, Republican, was elected Governor by 7,000 majority ——Kentucky elected Willson, Republican, governor by 14,000, and will contest the mayoralty of Louisville, where they charge that the Democrats elected a mayor by wholesale fraud——Fifteen men were reported killed and 30 injured yesterday by the explosion of the boilers of the German schoolship Blucher—Actor Raymond Hitchcock, under six indictments in New York, upon complaint of several young girls, as suddenly appeared in court yesterday as he had mysteriously disappeared several days ago; he had not left New York but was confined with nervous prostration; he says he will fight the case——At Austin, Texas, yesterday the State filed suit against the alleged subsidiary companies of the Standard Oil Company, and as a part of the efforts to drive them from the State will ask for the appointment of receivers——The board of directors of the Steel Trust met in New York yesterday and approved the purchase of the stock of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, which John W. Gates says was acquired at a great sacrifice——The Naval Stores Trust yesterday announced that the purchase of naval stores under the "open market" plan would be discontinued at Jacksonville and Pensacola and that hereafter Savannah will be buying headquarters——Governor Blanchard, of Louisiana, decided yesterday not to revoke the supplementary proclamation of Lieutenant Governor Sanders, who took advantage of the Governor's absence to add to the programme for corporation legislation when the Legislature meets in extra session in a few days——New York Markets: Money on call in strong demand at 10 to 25 per cent, ruling rate 15, closing bid 12, opened at 15; spot cotton 10 points lower, closing steady at 11 cents; flour dull and unsettled; wheat weak, No. 2 red 102 7-8 elevator, No. 2 hard Winter nominal; corn easy, No. 2 nominal elevator, No. 1 white 71; oats steady, mixed 53, natural white 54 1-2 to 56 1-2; turpentine easy 51 1-2; rosin easy, strained common to good 4.20 to 4.25.

"The season has passed for the fellow who rocks the boat," says a newspaper paragrapher. Nevertheless, we have with us the man who scuttles the financial ship.

"Let us take the world seriously," says a contemporary. Pard, we find it impossible to do it in face of the fact that an Ohio man has actually gone to law to regain possession of his mother-in-law.

It is announced that the "Laborites out West are going to fight Speaker Cannon for President." The Laborites take Uncle Joe's boom in such a serious manner as to make people laugh. Why don't the Laborites learn to take a joke?

Wall street blamed President Roosevelt for all the trouble, and President Roosevelt disputed it and put up the defense that he only "turned on the light." Of course, Wall street knows President Roosevelt did it by turning on the light, thereby hitting the innocent bystander.

When the Republicans and Democrats in New Jersey began the campaign which ended in the election on Tuesday, each side agreed not to employ bribery and other corrupt methods in their work. When the politicians begin to get good all of us can afford to fall in line.

The Republicans boast of the present large per capita of money in the United States. We would appreciate our per cap. more if the Republican policy did not concentrate it in the hands of predatory plutocratic persons or malevolent, machinating malefactors of great wealth.

Because of the tight money markets the price of a bale of cotton has declined $10, and the price of wheat has fallen several cents a bushel. If anyone were to suggest that the United States treasury furnish millions of money to keep up the price of cotton, as was done to keep bonds and stocks from going down, the suggestion would be taken as laughing stock.

Many a man who grieves because he has been rejected by a giddy, foolish girl, really does not appreciate his good luck.

STATUS OF AFFAIRS

COMPANY SAYS 'TIS CITY

City Says 'Tis the Company and There You are—Commission Not Yet Ready to Investigate—Rent Rolls Round Saturday.

The status of the water works question just now is rather problematical and may be represented by the algebraic "x", which is commonly accepted in all equations as an unknown quantity. The company says the city is in charge and that the property is being operated under the newly elected Water and Sewerage Commission The city says that it has never taken over the plant and so far as the municipality is concerned it has nothing to do with the operation of the sysbem.

Superintendent Robertson and other employes of the plant when seen yesterday stated that they were looking to the city as their employers and to rather tritely express the matter, they will expect the city to make "the ghost walk" when pay rolls become due Saturday. Colonel Walker Taylor, chairman of the Water and Sewerage Commission, when asked about the status of affairs yesterday afternoon, stated that so far as the commission was concerned, it had nothing to do with the operation of the property as the plant had never been turned over to them by the Board of Aldermen.

The Board of Aldermen, of course, maintains that it has never completed the purchase of the property and that in view of the disclosures as to the net earnings, so far as it is concerned, all negotiations have been broken off and opened up anew, the Board now being in the position of awaiting a report from the committee of citizens, identical with the commission, which has been appointed to investigate the earnings of the plant and make report with recommendations.

Thus it will be seen that while the the plant is still in operation neither the municipality nor the company is willing to "daddy" it and in the absence of an agreement before Saturday when pay rolls become due, some rather interesting developments are promised. Half a dozen employes of the company yesterday stated that they were working for the city and would look to the officials of the city on Saturday to make the usual weekly payment of wages. If this goes by default, some of the employes will doubtless cease their connection with the property and if their places are not filled by those immediately in executive control, it would appear that the plant would have to shut down.

As a matter of fact all bills for service and all receipts for moneys at the office on Princess street are being made out in the name of the city and the question is where does the city's liability begin and where does it cease.

It was suggested yesterday that the Commission as citizens might begin at once their investigation of the plant further in line with the resolution of the Board of Aldermen, but this has been impossible on account of the sad death in the family of Mr. Jacobi and the absence of Mr. Worth from the city on a very pressing business engagement. However, the hopeful view is that the parties to the controversy will get together before many days and that the entire matter will be cleared up. As a wag expressed it yesterday, the city officials and Clarendon Water Works people have succeeded in "muddying the waters" quite extensively.

SAD FUNERAL YESTERDAY

Remains of Late Mr. Nathaniel Jacobi Laid to Rest With Honors of Odd Fellows—Services Very Largely Attended.

After solemn and most impressive funeral services from the Temple of Israel, Fourth and Market streets, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rabbi S Mendelsohn, D. D., officiating in the presence of an immense throng of sorrowing friends and members of the bereaved family, the remains of the late Mr. Nathaniel Jacobi, who passed away at his home in this city Tuesday morning, were laid to rest in beautiful Oakdale cemetery with the highest honors of the Grand Lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of which fraternity the deceased in life was such a devoted member for so long a number of years. The throngs which gathered to pay a last sad mark of respect to this good man were so large that the seating capacity of the synagogue was overtaxed to accommodate them and many had to remain outside. Among the large crowds in attendance were members of the four subordinate lodges of Odd Fellows in the city and Campbell Encampment No. 1 I. O. O. F., of which Mr. Jacobi was a constant member for many years. Members of the Board of Directors of the Mechanics' Association also assembled at their office on Princess street and attended the obsequies in a body, while there were many individual friends not only from Wilmington but elsewhere in this vicinity.

The funeral hymns were rendered by a specal choir at the synagogue and a large number of very beautiful floral tributes were laid upon the casket. Dr. Mendelsohn paid a beautiful tribute to the life and character of Mr. Jacobi and his words in this particular struck a responsive chord in the hearts of his auditors.

From the synagogue the long funeral procession moved slowly to Oakdale cemetery where the burial was with Grand Lodge honors, Grand Master Perrin Busbee officiating and other Grand Lodge officers participating being Grand Trustee C. B. Edwards, Past Grand Representative C. F. Lumsden, Grand Treasurer R. J. Jones and Superintendent J. F. Brinson, of the Orphans' Home at Goldsboro of which Mr. Jacobi was the founder and one of the trustees. Grand Master Busbee and Messrs. Edwards and Lumsden arrived yesterday morning from Raleigh to attend the obsequies and Superintendent Brinson came in on the same train from Goldsboro, also to be present.

The pall-bearers for the funeral were as follows: Honorary, Mr. Richard J. Jones, Dr. D. W. Bulluck, Rev. A. D. McClure, D. D., Mr. W. M. Hankins, Mayor William E. Springer, Mr. Marsden Bellamy, Mr. H. C. McQueen and C. B. Edwards, of Raleigh; active, Messrs. A. David, A. Shrier, C. C. Covington, Isaac Bear, L. Bluethenthal, William Goodman, D. Wilborn Davis and Colonel Walker Taylor.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Bible Class Organized—Boys' Department Reception.

A new organization was formed last evening in the Y. M. C. A. when members of the Bible Study class, taught by Dr. A. D. McClure for so many years past, met for its first session for the present season. The class decided to assume the club form, and elected for its officers Rev. A. D. McClure, president; Edwin Kettle, vice-president; J. C. Douglas, secretary and treasurer. The club will meet in the assembly room of the Y. M. C. A. building each Monday, taking supper at 7 p. m., after which the subject for study will be taken up. Membership in the club is open to all men who are, or who may become interested.

The committee in charge of the Boys' Department are pleased to announce that the regular Fall reception for the boys will be held in the boys' room in the Y. M. C. A. building Friday, Nov. 8, at 7:30 p. m. A programme such as will interest boys, followed with refreshments, is being prepared. All members of the Boys' Department and their boy friends are cordially invited. Any boy who reads this notice and fails to receive any other invitation, is now cordially invited. Come and join the crowd.

Rev. Mr. Noe Bereaved.

Rev. Thomas P. Noe, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Sixth and Queen streets, has the tenderest sympathy of many friends here and elsewhere in the death of his little son, Jenner Wood, aged but a few months, which occurred yesterday afternoon at the James Walker Memorial Hospital, where with a little twin brother, who is also critically ill, he had been under treatment since Sunday. Bereft of a mother's loving care in their tenderest infancy, the twin children have never been in good health in spite of all that could be done for them, and the death yesterday while not unexpected, came as a sad blow to the deeply afflicted young father. A brief funeral service will be conducted at the residence, 611 Orange street, today at noon and the remains will be taken to Beaufort, N. C., to be laid beside the newly made grave of the mother.

NOTHING FROM CASE

Supreme Court Silent Upon Appeal in Case of Fine Upon Southern Railway.

THE OPINIONS YESTERDAY

Number of Decisions of No General Interest—Daughter of Senator Simmons Married—Dispensary Clerk is Warranted—Notes.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 6—The Supreme Court this evening delivered opinions in eleven cases, one famous case, State vs. Southern Railway, in which Judge Long fined the Southern $30,000 for violation of the 2 1-4 cent passenger rate, being conspicuous still for its absence. No indication is made as to when it will come down.

Opinions were filed as follows: Lumber Company vs. Leonard, new trial; Brokenborough vs. Insurance Company, Mecklenburg, no error; State vs. William Jones, Forsyth, no error; Taylor vs Seaboard Air Line, Granville, reversed; Taylor vs. Annuity Company, Granville, affirmed; Blackwell Tobacco Co. vs. American Tobacco Company, Durham, action dismissed; McDuffie vs. Seaboard Air Line, Chatham, reversed; McDuffie and Womack vs. Seaboard Air Line, Chatham, reversed; State vs. Godwin, Anson, new trial; State vs. Seaboard Air Line, Franklin, per curiam affirmed; Harrison vs. Telegraph Company, Rowan, per curiam affirmed.

Mr. Graham H. Andrews, youngest son of Col. A. B. Andrews, and Miss Eliza Humphrey Simmons, daughter of Senator Simmons, were married at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, in the Church of the Good Shepherd.

Standing Master Montgomery, of the U. S. Circuit Court, today stated that he could not decide when the railway rate hearing case of the Southern Railway will be resumed; that he will first consult with the half-dozen or more State's attorneys who completed their conference with Governor Glenn last evening. No announcement of what the conference agreed on will be given out by Governor Glenn or any one else at present.

W. A. Baker, a clerk in the city liquor dispensary, has been arrested on a charge of selling liquor to a minor, a 17-year-old boy named Lee Davis. The case is set for trial by the magistrate for next Saturday. Because the liquor dispensary is implicated, the agitation of the prohibition question here at present will attract unusual attention.

FUNERAL OF CAPTAIN SKINNER

Remains Reached Here Early This Morning—The Services.

Accompanied by Mr. Louis H. Skinner, a son of the deceased, the remains of the late Captan Samuel W. Skinner, who passed away in Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday night, reached the city this morning on the early morning train and were carried to the late residence No. 611 Orange street. The remains were met at the station by a number of frends of Captan Skinner and of the family and were tenderly borne to the home where they will lie in state until this afternoon when the casket will be taken to Saint Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the funeral services will be conducted from there by Dr. McClure, the pastor, at 3:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

INTERESTING EXHIBIT

Curios From Mission Fields of China and Africa Displayed.

There will be much interest for all who will attend this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock and this evening from 8 to 10 o'clock the exhibit of curios from the mission fields of China and Africa to be made by Mrs. George C. Worth and Mrs. J. S. Crowley, at the residence of the latter, No. 202 Nun street. These curios are in endless variety and will be found more than interesting. A small admission of 10 cents will be charged and a number of the curios will be offered for sale, the proceeds to be devoted to a worthy cause. All friends are invited and are assured an evening of rare pleasure.

Red Men's Degree Team.

With scalping knives keen and war paint thick upon their swarthy countenances, the team which will go up to the reservation at Wallace on Monday sleep to scalp a number of pale faces before admitting them to the new tribe, met last night and conferred the degrees upon 12 canddates for membership in Laxipolka Tribe. The team is all to the good and the pale faces of Wallace will do well to get in trim.

To Enforce Pipe Ordinance.

Property owners will be interested in an ukase issued by the Mayor yesterday to the effect that after a reasonable length of time the ordinance requiring all drains pipe from buildngs in the down town sections to be laid underground, will be strictly enforced. Chief of Police Williams is giving notice to property owners who have not complied with the law and after a reasonable length of time continued violations will be prosecuted.

L'AGILE COTILLON CLUB

Danced Pretty German, First of Season, Last Night in Masonic Temple—About Twenty Couples Were In Attendance.

L'Agile Cotillon Club last night gave a very pretty german in the Masonic Temple ball room, the occasion having been the opening dance of the season for this popular organization composed of the younger society set in Wilmington. There were about twenty couples present and dancing and the affair was one that gave great pleasure to all in attendance. Mr. Paul L. Cantwell, the regular club leader, led the couples through the mazes of many new and intricate figures, excellent music for the dance having been discoursed by Hollowbush's Academy Orchestra. There were many spectators in the gallery and the decorations were of the usual pretty and elaborate nature. Among those present and dancing were:

Miss Jessie Croswell, of Fayetteville, with Mr. Ernest Peschau; Miss Jennie Murchison with Mr. Emmet Crow; Miss Florence Kidder with Mr. Haughton James; Miss Bessie Gore with Mr. Eugene LeGrand; Miss Margaret Ashe with Mr. S. A. Stockard; Miss Thurber Gore with Mr. Willie Gore; Miss Nannie Holladay with Mr. E. P. Bailey; Miss Ella Jacobs with Mr. John Myers; Miss Virginia Bailey with Mr. Markley Crosswell; Miss Annie Hill Holmes with Mr. Rob James; Miss Madeline DeRosset with Mr. Louis T. Moore; Miss Marguerite Walker with Mr. Montgomery Ridgley; Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Cantwell; Miss Charlotte Pleasants with Mr. Walter Storm; Miss Theo. Cantwell with Mr. John Calvert; Miss May Ella Moore with Mr. W. P. Emerson; Miss Agnes McQueen with Mr. W. L. Smith, Jr.

Stags—Mr. A. B. Pleasants, Mr. S. C. Potts, Jr., Mr. Julian R. Clements and Mr. Louis B. Hatch.

As a mild protest against what members of the club consider quite an unnnecessary advance by the liverymen of the city, no carriages were used for the dance and a car of the Consolidated Company was kept in waiting at the disposal of the dancers until the german was concluded at 1 o'clock this morning.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Daisy Elizabeth Barnes Bride of Mr. Melvin Middleton.

In a pretty but very quiet ceremony performed last evening at the home of the bride's father, Mr. D. F. Barnes, No. 905 North Fourth street, by the Rev. N. M. Watson, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Miss Daisy Elizabeth Barnes became the attractive young bride of Mr. Melvin Lee Middleton, a well known and popular young Wilmingtonian, who is cashier of the Brooklyn branch of the People's Savings Bank. The wedding marches were skilfully played by Mr. Paul Lupo. According to the wishes of both the bride and groom, only relatives and a few very intimate friends were present to witness the ceremony, but after the marriage quite a number of friends of the young people were entertained at a reception given at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Addie Dent, No. 410 North Fourth street, where Mr. and Mrs. Middleton will reside in the future. At the reception the young people were the recipients of many happy congratulations upon the union for life just formed.

The bride for her many charms of personality and manner is much admired in a wide circle of friends. The groom, by his strict devotion to business and his agreeable disposition, has made a great many friends, all of whom will congratulate him upon his good fortune in the ceremony yesterday evening.

MARRIED IN ROCKY MOUNT.

Mr. G. Henry Shepard Claims Miss Laura Powell as His Bride.

As quite a surprise to many friends and relatives in this city, Mr. George Henry Shepard, a popular young employe in the Wilmington yards of the Atlantic Coast Line, arrived yesterday morning from Rocky Mount, introducing as his bride Miss Laura Powell, an attractive young lady who lives with her mother near Weldon, but who has visited quite extensively here. They were married in Rocky Mount Tuesday evening and came to Wilmington to make their home yesterday morning. They are at the home of Mr. Shepard's brother, Mr. C. I. Shepard, No. 926 North Fourth street. They have the best wishes of many friends for their future happiness.

The Violett Revival.

A great meeting is now in progress in the tabernacle of the Church of Christ, Disciples, Seventh and Orange streets, under the leadership of evangelists of international reputation. Mr. Violett is a man of great enthusiasm and rare power and is preaching the Word with telling effect to large congregations nightly. Mrs. Violett is assisting Prof. O. J. Marks with the music, and this is one of the features of the meeting. The public is cordially invited to each service, beginning at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Don't forget only three days more to get that $12.50 Kirschbaum rain coat for $9.98; $12.50 suit $9.69; $5 boy suit, $3.50; $5 wool blankets, $3.50 at Rehder's. **

WATERWAY ECHOES

Business Men Agree Convention on Tuesday Was Perfect Success Every Way.

TRIP DOWN THE RIVER

Party Guests of Capt. Earl I Brown on Steamer Mercur Yesterday—Appointments to be Made Later. Other News Notes.

Wilmington business men are agreed that the meeting of the Waterway Association in this city Tuesday morning and afternoon was nothing short of a perfect success both in personnel of the delegates from all parts of the State and in the results accomplished. Many of them interviewed yesterday were highly enthusiastic over the convention and expressed the view that the organization of the North Carolina Waterways Association would result in incalculable benefit to the whole State. The foundation, they say, has been laid for a large and powerful organization of business men which is bound to have an influence before Congress and the affiliation with the National body will give the movement an added impetus.

President Chadbourn yesterday did not give consideration to the matter of the appointment of the executive committee of the Association which was delegated to him at the convention Tuesday, but these appointments will be announced in a few days. Soon after the appointment, a secretary and treasurer will be elected and at once will begin the campaign of enlightenment from Currituck to Cherokee. President Chadbourn will also within the next day or two appoint fifty delegates to attend the National Rivers and Harbors Congress, which meets at the New Willard Hotel, in Washington, on December 4th, 5th and 6th. It is hoped to have from this State a very large attendance. At the convention Tuesday, Major E. J. Hale, of Fayetteville, was unanimously recommended for re-election as vice president of the National body for the Middle Atlantic States. It is certain that this choice will be ratified by the National Congress at the New Willard next month.

Many of the distinguished guests who came for the convention Tuesday remained over yesterday while others returned to their homes during the day. Those who remained were the guests of Captain Earl I. Brown, in charge of the United States Corps of Engineers in this district, for a delightful trip down the river and a short distance outside on the government steamer Mercur, which left the Custom House wharf at 10 o'clock in the morning. Among those in the party were Captain Brown and Assistant Engineer R. C. Merritt, of the Engineers' Department; Senator Lee S. Overman, of Salisbury, and his host while in the city, Mr. Martin S. Willard; Congressmen Godwin, Small and W. W. Kitchin, the latter having arrived from Lumberton where he made an address on Tuesday preventing his attendance here for the convention; Major E. J. Hale, of Fayetteville; Mr. J. A. Fore, of Charlotte; Mr. Geo. Byrne, special correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record; President James H. Chadbourn, of the State Waterways Association; President J. A. Taylor, of the Chamber of Commerce; ex-Congressman A. M. Waddell, Mr. H. W. Malloy and others.

The Mercur steamed down the river at once and while on the way to the mouth of the stream Captain Brown and Engineer Merritt gave the visitors all possible information as to the port and the improvements that have already been made here. Reaching Southport, several members of the party expressed a desire to go outside and the wish was at once gratified in spite of the fact that the sea was a little rough and a "pinkness of Congressional and Senatorial gills" was apparent even before the outside buoy was reached. However, an excellent view of the bar and river was obtained and the outing was pronounced by quite everyone as one of the most pleasant of their lives.

On the return trip to the city an elegant luncheon was served on board by Captain Brown and quite every member of the party made response to requests for expression from the toastmaster. The trip cemented for keeps the impressions gained by the visitors at the convention on Tuesday. Senator Overman, Congressmen Small, Godwin and Kitchin remain in the city today and they speak in the highest terms of the success of the meetings here. Major Hale also remains over in the city until this morning. He was a guest at the home of Mr. Jas. H. Chadbourn last night.

Cargo for Liverpool.

The British steamer Yanariva cleared last night for Liverpool with the seventeenth cargo of cotton from Wilmington for foreign export this season. This cargo consists of 10,100 bales valued at $610,000 and is consigned by Messrs. Alexander Spurunt & Son. The Fashoda, which has been discharging cargo of fertilizer constituents up the river, has taken a berth at the Champion Compress for cotton cargo.

OUR ENORMOUS COTTON INDUSTRY.

If the South were to manufacture all the cotton it grows what an industry of inconceivable magnitude it would be compared with the already tremendous industry which we now have in the production of 12,000,000 to 13,000,000 bales annually and the manufacture of nearly two and a half million bales consumed by Southern spindles. As it is, Europe takes about two-thirds of the cotton which we grow and of that which Europe takes from us Great Britain gets nearly half. England makes more money out of our cotton crop than we do.

One of the most informing pieces of statistical information concerning the cotton crops of the South and other portions of the world where it is grown is to be found in Bulletin 90 which has just been published by the Bureau of the Census at Washington. The Bulletin contains a report on the supply and distribution of cotton in the United States for the year ending August 31, 1907. The bulletin also includes the latest available data in respect to the number of cotton spindles and to the consumption of cotton in other important manufacturing countries, together with statistics of imports and exports of raw cotton and its manufactures for selected countries. This report was prepared under the supervision of William M. Steuart, chief statistician for manufactures, by Daniel C. Roper, expert special agent.

The supply of cotton for the year ending August 31, 1907, according to the Census bulletin, was 15,025,720 bales of 500 pounds each. To this number the cotton crop of 1906 contributed 12,897,714 bales and that of 1907 contributed 200,278 bales; stocks held on September 1, 1906, amounted to 1,349,139 bales and the imports of foreign cotton to 202,733 bales.

Of this supply 4,984,936 bales were consumed by manufacturers, 22,952 were burned, and 8,503,265 were exported, leaving 1,514,567 bales in stock at the end of the year. Manufacturers in the cotton growing states consumed 2,410,993 bales, which was slightly less than the amount consumed by the manufacturers in all the other states, 2,573,943 bales.

The figures given above for the imports of cotton represent only the net imports. The total importation during the year was 228,793 bales of 500 pounds each, but of this amount 26,060 bales were re-exported. In this connection it is proper to state that a large part of the foreign cotton re-exported this year is of Mexican growth and in reality only passed through America ports in transit to Europe. Practically all fireign cotton imported for use in this country was of Egyptian or Peruvian growth, which is used in the manufacture of thread and of knit goods and as a substitute for wool in the manufacture of woolen goods.

The manufacturers in the cotton growing States rely almost exclusively for their supply upon domestic upland cotton. Of their total consumption only about 2,000,000 pounds, or less than 2 per cent., was sea-island cotton, and only 4,332,593 pounds, or about 4 per cent., was foreign. In the other states only 1.6 per cent. of the cotton consumed was sea-island, but 5 per cent. was foreign.

Of the total number of bales consumed by manufacturers, 4,751,748 were used in mills reporting cotton spindles, 40,538 in woolen mills not reporting cotton spindles, 23,849 in knitting establishments not reporting cotton spindles, 96,155 in bedding and mattress manufacturing establishments, and 72,646 in other establishments. When the amount of cotton consumed in mills reporting cotton spindles is divided by the number of spindles in those mills, the consumption per spindle is found to be 90 pounds. This result, however, can not be accepted as representing the real capacity of the cotton spindles of the United States, as in some cases all or a portion of the spindles are operated only a part of the year, while in other instances they are operated day and night.

The exports of domestic cotton from the United States during the year ending August 31, 1907, amounted to 9,036,434 bales of 500 pounds each. Of this amount 3,966,119, or 44 per cent., went to the United Kingdom; 2,315,651, or 26 per cent. to Germany; and 1,006,633, or 11 per cent., to France. During the twenty-six years from 1880 to 1906 the exports to the United Kingdom increased 45 per cent.; those to Germany nearly 400 per cent; and those to France 82 per cent. The exports to Italy increased from 75,145 bales in 1880 to 567,916 bales in 1906, or nearly sevenfold. Exports to Japan are noteworthy because of the remarkable variations in the quantities for the different years, as well as for the growth in these exports since 1890, which is the first year for which they are presented in the report. In 1906 they amounted to 262,283 bales, while for 1904 they were 336,575 bales. The exports to Russia decreased, a fact which may be partially explained by the increased production of cotton in Russian territory, by the importation of Persian cotton, and by the recent unsettled conditions in that country.

Exports of sea-island cotton formed about one-third of the 57,550 bales reported by the ginners as produced in 1906. In 1905 about 36 per cent. of the sea-island crop was evported. The United Kingdom takes about three-fourths of the amount exported, while most of the remainder goes to France.

Of the 1,514 567 bales of cotton remaining in the United States on August 31 last, 1,016,738 bales, or 67 per cent., were in the actual possession of manufacturers; 388,919 bales, or 26 per cent., in independent warehouses and compresses; 54,596 in the possession of transportation companies; 40,088 in the possession of merchants, buyers, ginners, and cotton seed oil mills; and 14,226 bales in the actual possession of producers.

The relatively large quantity of cotton in warehouses is an indication of a gratifying tendency toward greater care in handling this staple. In the past large quantities of cotton have been lost through carelessness and neglect; but the increased value of cotton, resulting from the fact that the supply has not kept pace with the growth in demand, has a tendency to correct this evil.

The total value of exports of cotton goods of domestic manufacture was $32,305,412, of which $11,496,734, or 36 per cent., was for unbleached cloths; $2,240,431, or 7 per cent., for bleached cloths; and $7,502,082, or 23 per cent., for dyed, colored, or printed cloths. Of the total value of cotton manufactures exported $4,425,055, or 14 per cent., went to Europe; $14,821,264, or 46 per cent., to North and South America; $12,325,874, or 38 per cent., to Asia; and the remainder to Africa. The export of American yarns to the Far East is insignificant, as that market is cintrolled by British India and Japan.

Imports of cotton manufactures during the year ending June 30. 1907, were valued at $73,704,636, more than one-half of which consisted of laces and embroideries. Switzerland leads in the export of laces to this country with $13,979,808, or about one-third of the total. France was secind with $12,484,906. Of the bleached, dyed. or printed cloths imported, 79 per cent came from the United Kingdom, which country also supplied more than three-foutrhs of the thread, yarn, and warps imported. Practically all of the imports of hosiery and knit goods, amounting in value to $8,671,848, came from Germany.

The number of cotton spindles in the world, as shown by the report, is 123,332,971. As nearly as it can be determined the amount of cotton consumed was 19,493,441 bales, a weekly consumption of 374,874 bales. This is not, however, the total consumption for the world, as in a number of eastern countries and in South and Central America large quantities of cotton are grown and consumed which do not enter into commercial channels, and therefore can not be estimated with any certainty. The figures indicate, however, that the United States furnished two-thrids of the supply of the world.

In the exportation of cotton manufactures, the United Kingdom ranks first, followed in the order of their importance by Germany, the United States, British India, France, Switzerland, Japan, the Netherlands, and Italy. As regards imports of these manufactures British India leads with $133,162,701, closely followed by China with $125,238,539, and the United States, with $37,704,646. The report closes with an interesting diagram illustrative of the processes through which cotton passes in the course of its manufacture.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—The panicky condition of the stock market seems not to have been reflected in the stork market.—Charlotte News.

—With $1,000,000 in Charlotte banks there is a tendency to say to Wall street, in the parlance of the street, go your route!"—Charlotte News

—In the death of Mr. N. Jacobi, of Wilmington, the State loses a true citizen who made his life felt in living the principles of Odd Fellowship and in caring for the orphans. He was diligent in business, but his chief pride was in the success of the Odd Fellows' Orphan's Home at Goldsboro, of which he was a trustee.—Raleigh News and Observer.

—The thirty-foot waterway for the lower Cape Fear and deepening of that river to Fayetteville means great things for all North Carolina. There is much in the statement by Mr. Fox that it is folly to spend five billions to put the railroads of the country in condition to meet existing traffic needs, when 50 millions a year for 10 years would put all our deserving waterways—the smallest of them equal to a ten-track railway—in condition fit for thousand ton barges.—Raleigh News and Observer.

—"Tell me, Colonel," said Dabbs, meeting the old warrior at the club the other night, "from your experience with the Fillipinos, do you think they can be benevolently assimilated?" "They may be benevolently assimilated, Mr. Dabbs, but my great fear is that they will be damnably digested," replied the Colonel.—Harper's Weekly.

Humorous Chinese Graft.

A certain Chinese taotai (magistrate) having told his men to have two ingots of gold sent to his treasury for purchase, the shopmen brought them in and in answer to the query of the taotai told him that the price was so much in taels, but added, "This is the ordinary price, but for your honor we will knock off one-half of the price." Then the taotai said to his underlings: "Seeing that they are to sell to me at only one-half price, just give them back one ingot of gold and put the other in my treasury, and thus their account is settled. Goodby." So the underlings of the yamen did so, but still the shopmen hung around waiting. The taotai asked them why they were waiting, when their account had been already settled. Said the shopmen, "When did your honor pay your humble servants?" Then the magistrate answered with a very fierce air: "Taio nu ts-ai" (impertinent slaves), "did you not say that these two gold ingots were half price to me? Then did I not give you back one ingot and keep the other and thus settle your account without the least injustice according to your own proposition? So be off with you or my lictors will give you a taste of the scourge."—Harper's Weekly.

A Singular Calculation.

It would require, according to the calculations of a scientist, the power of a 10,000 horsepower engine about 70,000,000,000 years to lift the earth a foot in height, and to do this work, allowing thirteen pounds of water per horsepower per hour, would require some 10,000,000,000,000,000,000 gallons of water, or more than would be discharged at the mouth of the Mississippi in 6,000 years. This would be enough, the writer estimates, to cover the entire surface of the earth to a depth of not less than 300 feet, to convert which into steam, using good boilers, would require some 4,000,000,000,000,000 tons of coal. If the latter quantity of the mineral was loaded on cars of twenty tons each it would demand 200,000,000,000,000 such cars. If the latter were thirty feet long and all coupled together in one train it would reach around the earth 45,000,000 times and, if running twenty-five miles per hour, would consume 25,000,000 years in running the length of itself. So much for figures.

He Couldn't Plow.

A certain incident connected with the great Napoleon while he was in exile in Elba is commemorated in the island to this hour by an inscription affixed to the wall of a peasant's house.

A man named Giaconi was plowing when the famous exile came along one day and expressed an interest in his work. Napoleon even took the plowshare out of the man's hand and attempted to guide it himself. But the oxen refused to obey him, overturned the plow and spoiled the furrow.

The inscription runs thus: "Napoleon the Great, passing by this place in MDCCCXIV, took in the neighboring field a plowshare from the hands of a peasant and himself tried to plow, but the oxen, rebellious to those hands which yet had guided Europe, headlong fled from the furrow."

Greenland Whales.

The great Greenland whale has no teeth, its baleen plates, or whalebone, taking their place. Along the center of the palate runs a strong ridge, and on each side of this there is a wide depression along which the plates are inserted. These are long and flat, hanging free, and are placed across the mouth with their sides parallel and near each other. The base and outer edge of the plates are of solid whalebone, but the inner edges are fringed, filling up the interior of the mouth and acting as a strainer for the food, which consists of the small swimming mollusks and medusae or jellyfish.

A Man's Career.

A man ought to look upon his career as a great artist looks upon his masterpiece, as an out-picturing of his best self, upon which he looks with infinite pride and a satisfaction which nothing else can give. Yet many people are so loosely connected with their vocation that they are easily separated from it.—Success Magazine.

He Knew Mother.

"See here," cried the boy's father, "if you don't behave I'll whip you!"

"I wisht you would," replied the bad boy.

"You do, eh?"

"Yes, 'cause when it's all over ma will gimme some candy."—Exchange.

Heartless.

"So you wouldn't take me to be twenty-six?" giggled the fair widow.

"No, indeed," rejoined the inconsiderate old bachelor. "But if you had a daughter I might take her to be that old."

THE TERROR'S DINNER

"Rattlesnakes on Toast" Was the Cowboy's Order.

BUT HE MET WITH HIS MATCH

The Promptness With Which the Tough Waiter Served the Dish Took the Terror's Nerve Away—The Repast and the Final Request.

Away back in 1876 a man named Turpin established a restaurant in Yuma, and among Turpin's original employees was a waiter named Job Straight, who could shoot with great precision, play draw poker with unvarying success and pack eighteen plates of miscellaneous grub upon one bare arm at one time. He could execute all the prevailing melodies either on piano or guitar, and he possessed the most tremendous baritone voice ever heard in Arizona. Why, men sometimes went to Turpin's just to hear Joe deliver gastronomic orders. No perfect description can be given of that voice, however, except to say that at times it really did make things clatter.

Once a fresh young cowboy from near Gila Bend entered Turpin's for a Christmas dinner who took a startling concoction as an appetizer and then dropped thud-like at a table and roughly shouted to Straight:

"Say, there, Baldy! Bring me some grub!"

Job was at first appalled; but, recovering his reserve limit of equanimity, he brushed an imaginary breadcrumb from the frescoed tablecloth and whisked a bill of fare from the variegated castor and placed it before the new young terror of the Bend.

"Take it away!" cried the latter in tones that could give Straight's ordinary, everyday baritone a castle and checkmate it in five moves. "I don't want to read your darned old tract. I don't care a darn who came into the world to save sinners. Bring me some grub—g-r-u-b! Grub! Grub! Grub!"

"What do you want?"

"Rattlesnakes on toast! And I want you to hump yourself!"

"What's that?"

"I've given my order, you baldheaded old cigar store sign, and I want you to get a move on yourself, p. d. q. Rattlesnakes on toast!"

"Rattlesnakes on toast!" cried Job to the cook in accents that would have paralyzed Carl Formes had that old basso profundo been living and heard them.

"Rattlesnakes on toast!" was the reverberating response from the cook upon receiving the order.

There were a dozen or more people in the restaurant, and their eyes were at once turned on the young person from the Bend and the infuriated waiter.

In the meantime the cook had taken a big catfish and cut it into four strips and rolled these strips in batter, so that they much resembled the viand ordered, and after placing them in the frying pan he stuck his head out of the kitchen and shouted to Job:

"You want them rattlers rare or well done?"

The waiter repeated the interrogatory in a cyclonic way, and the terror replied in as violent a tone and manner as he could command, "Well done, with plenty of gravy and Chili Colorado."

And then Job thundered to the cook:

"Well done, with plenty of Chili Colorado, hot as ——, and moccasin gravy on the side and brochettes of sand crane livers and Gila monster lights!"

There was an instantaneously dead silence in that restaurant, and all eyes were again cast upon the terror and the waiter. The former turned ashen pale and began to weaken perceptibly, while Job gazed at his victim.

"Maybe you don't think we can serve all the market affords," muttered Job. "Maybe you don't like moccasin gravy or brochettes a la mode. Maybe you ain't hungry!"

"Say! You've got me—I ain't hungry, so help me. I couldn't eat a single hard boiled egg. Countermand that durned order, old man, and I'll pay all expenses and set 'em up as long as anybody can drink. Beg pardon, gentlemen, all. My first attempt to be a terror—pardon me, gentlemen. It's my last!"

And then he handed his revolver to Job and added:

"Take that pistol, old man, as a present and promise me that the next time any durned fool comes in here and calls for rattlesnakes on toast you'll shoot him dead!"

But Straight was too raving mad all the way through to willingly emerge from a situation only tolerably triumphant. So he took the weapon just as the order was being placed on the table and, pointing it at the terror, exclaimed:

"Now, then, my boy, dump yourself into that chair and eat them snakes—bones, skin and all!"

The young fellow did as he was commanded, but after finishing his repast staggered the uncompromising Job by shouting:

"I say, Baldy, bring me another plate of snakes!"—Denver News.

Wanted New Ones.

A traveler putting up at a fifth class hotel brought the "boots" up with his angry storming.

"Want your room changed, sir? What's the matter, sir?"

"The room's all right," fumed the guest scorchingly; "it's the fleas I object to, that's all."

"Mrs. Bloobs," bawled the "boots" in an uninterested sort of voice, "the gent in No. 6 is satisfied with his room but he wants the fleas changed."—Illustrated Bits.

What's the Use of paying more for an article through prejudice, than you can buy for less, that's just as good?

Take Whiskey, for Instance.

We make but one charge—just for whiskey—that's all When you pay more than we ask for our whiskey you are being taxed for something else besides the whiskey.

Now "WHAT'S THE USE" of you paying an excess to anybody for imaginary superiority—when we have the same goods, but are content through immense volumes of sales, to break even on profits—instead of "hikeing up" the price beyond the point of giving you value received.

"CHESTERFIELD" products are "AS GOOD AS THE BEST FOR LESS." That's the reason "CHESTERFIELD" Whiskies are popular.

"CHESTERFIELD NEVER DISAPPOINTS." Full quart $1.00. TRY IT.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

—Mr. T. H. Hales, of Elizabethtown, N. C., was among yesterday's arrivals in the city, and was a pleasant caller at the Star office.

—Friends in this city and elsewhere will regret to know that Col. Peter Mallett is very sick at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Gabriel Holmes, on North Third street.

—Mr. D. Montrose Bain, of Vineland, has returned to the city from his home and resumed his position in the mailing department and business office of the Star.

—Road Superintendent Herbert Hocutt has returned from a very pleasant visit to the Jamestown Exposition and other points of interest North. He has now entirely recovered from his recent very severe attack of typhoid fever.

—Mr. Joseph B. Linder, assistant superintendent at the Wilmington branch of the Standard Oil Company, has resigned his position, effective December 1st, and will be succeeded by Mr. Roy Bishop. Mr. Linder expects to take a similar position in Baltimore in the near future.

—Mr. J. A. Wooten, of Whitehall, Bladen county, and bride, nee Miss Julia Braddy, a daughter of Captain Braddy, of Bladen, were in the city yesterday on their way to Jamestown and other points of interest North, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Wooten were married yesterday morning at the home of the bride by Rev. Mr. Wells, of Wallace, and have the best wishes of a host of friends for their happiness.

GREAT NOVEMBER SALE.

Big Offerings at Department Store of J. H. Rehder & Company.

While only three more days of the great November sale at the big department store of J. H. Rehder & Co. remain, it is well worth the while of the careful buyer to visit the establishment and take advantage of some of the special bargains that are being offered. Last Sunday's paper carried a page advertisement of the special items in the stock that will appeal to the bargain seeker, and though the crowds have been exceptionally large, Manager Alligood says that there are yet the choicest of the offerings, and all friends as well as the general public are advised to come at once and get the benefit of the sale. Special drives are being made in carpets and mattings, which are laid free this week; in Fruit of the Loom bleaching, ten yards to the dollar; unbleached homespun and other fabrics, while the famous Kirschbaum raincoats and suits for men and boys are being offered at great reductions. Then, too, for this cool wave all wool blankets have been thrown on the bargain counter, while in cloaks, furs and coat suits, special reductions have been made. A visit to the store will be mutually pleasing to the customer and the proprietors and salesmen.

Arrivals at St. Helena.

Eight families of sturdy agriculturalists from Northern Italy, some thirty persons all told, will arrive this morning at the St. Helena colony of the Carolina Trucking Development Co., near Burgaw. They came over directly from the sunny isle to New York and were met upon their arrival there by Mr. C. L. Fisher, special agent of the company, who recently spent some time among the Northern Italians and interested many of them in the splendid possibilities of this country. Others will be arriving from time to time and ere long the population of St. Helena will number up in the hundreds.

Marriage Announcements.

Announcement is made of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Jeneive Hancock, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Hancock, and Mr. Jasper R. Batchelor, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Batchelor, of Chadbourn, and of Miss Lucile Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Bishop, and Mr. John H. Irving, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Irving. License was also issued yesterday for the marriage of Miss Annie Cumber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Cumber, and Mr. William A. Taylor, all of Delgado.

A Hard Debt to Pay.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for the rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equaled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy, druggist. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

The Theatre

The Academy of Music was again well filled last evening to witness the production of the King Stock Company at popular prices. "Married for Money" was the bill and this proved to be a laughable farce comedy, ably put on and well acted. The work of Mr. Charles King, as Morgan the Broker was as clever as could be and the universal opinion of those who witnessed the piece was that the company is one of the best ever seen here at popular prices. Specialties by Merteus and Leighton were put on between acts and were excellent as were also the stunts of The Lusks and Sydney Ghale. Tonight the bill will be "Rip VanWinkle" and a crowded house will no doubt witness this old and ever-popular offering.

John Griffith Friday Night.

The eminent tragedian John Griffith will be seen at the Academy tomorrow night in Shakespeare's "King Richard, the Third." Mr. Griffith is especially fitted mentally and physically for this difficult role and his "Richard" is said to be faithful and highly pleasing. His devotion to Shakespeare is almost abnormal and he enters the play with a fire and an enthusiasm that is characteristic of the Shakespearean tragedy. Seats are now on sale for this splendid production and the scale runs to $1.50.

LOCAL DOTS.

—The schooner Horace P. Shares, Captain Flynn, was docked at the Springer Coal Company's yesterday. She has a cargo of coal from Perth Amboy; vessel to C. D. Maffitt.

—The North Carolina Sorosis will hold its regular monthly meeting in the club rooms this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The executive committee will meet at 3:55 p. m. A full attendance is desired.

—The following building permits were issued yesterday: Tom Brown, three-room dwelling, to cost $300, Twelfth and Orange streets; A. Steljes, two-story cart house, to cost $50, at Tenth and Market; R. B. Boney, three-room dwelling, to cost $300, at Tenth and Wright.

—The river steamers Johnson and Lyon were in port yesterday, but the stage of water in the river is still far from satisfactory. The Johnson brought 80 bales of cotton and naval stores and the Lyon 45 bales of cotton and naval stores. Both cleared for the return in the afternoon.

—Mrs. Maria Hicks, of Delgado, 50 years of age, died Monday evening at the hospital, where she had been under treatment more than two months for tubercular peritonitis. The funeral was conducted yesterday and the remains were laid to rest in Bellevue.

—At the company drill at the W. L. I. Tuesday night, Mr. Zach Bell was the winner of the medal for the best drilled soldier. A company election is called to fill the vacancy of first lieutenant, caused by the promotion of Lieut. Thomas R. Orrell to assistant inspector of small arms practice of the State National Guard.

ST. JAMES' BROTHERHOOD.

Delightfully Entertained Last Evening in the Parish House.

The Brotherhood of St. James delightfully entertained the male members of the congregation and a few friends last evening in the parish house, the affair having been heartily enjoyed by all in attendance. The Brotherhood of the Church of the Good Shepherd had been specially invited and a season of delightful social pleasures was enjoyed by hosts and guests alike.

Rev. R. W. Hogue presided at the social session and among the features of entertainment were several selections by the St. James Quartette, composed of the Messrs. Fenley, Mr. James Wesley White and Mr. R. H. Bates, and a solo by Mr. Bates. Informal addresses were made by Col. Walker Taylor, Mr. J. Allen Taylor, Mr. R. E. Tapp, Mr. George Rountree, Capt. William F. Robertson, Rev. N. M. Watson, Mr. S. M. Boatwright, W. N. Harriss and others. The address of Mr. Tapp was a review of some of the work of the recent convention of the Brotherhood in Washington City and was quite interesting. After the formal part of the exercises a course of light refreshments was served.

The Brotherhood of the Church of the Good Shepherd held an interesting and most pleasant social evening on Tuesday night. The special speakers were Col. Walker Taylor and Rev. J. S. Crowley, both of the Presbyterian Church.

Racing Matinee This Afternoon.

The racing matinee of the Wilmington Driving Association this afternoon will attract a very large crowd. There will be three events. The first will be a mile race, free for all, entered by Wilton Boy, driven by Poole; Billie S., driven by Daniels, and Traveler by McEachern. The second event will be 2:35 pacing, entered by Queen, driven by Caldwell, and Barney, by Arringdale. In the 2:40 trotting the entries will be Sir Hanna by Wrede, Dandy by Alexander, Patti by Emerson, Daisy by Daniels, and Jim by Jones. The grand stand has been completed and will be open this afternoon for the first time. Ladies will be admitted free but gentlemen will be charge 25 cents.

THEODORE HOOK.

Stories of the Greatest Practical Joker of His Day.

Of the list of geniuses the name of Theodore Hook is near the top. At sixteen he was making a big income and enjoying great popularity. His name was blazoned in the papers as a prodigy, his portraits were in the shop windows, and he had free admission to all theaters and other places of amusement. For years he was a social and literary lion. His last words were: "It is only to the grave that I must be carried. If my poor children were safe I would not care. I am suffering under a constant depression of spirits which no one who sees me in society dreams of."

Hook's practical jokes were the talk of the day. His intimates egged him on continually, and there was nothing he would stop at. One day they pointed out to him as an appropriate specimen for his museum a gilded eagle of enormous dimensions which had just been erected over a grocer's shop. A few weeks afterward while entertaining his coterie at dinner at one of the old taverns he ordered the "game" to be served. To the astonishment of the guests the waiter entered the room staggering under the burden of a dish of unusual size. On uncovering it there was produced the identical eagle which Hook as a practical joke had contrived to carry off. Merely for this sort of fun Hook used to pull off knockers and bell handles, carry away tradesmen's signs, overturn the boxes of sleeping janitors and do other devilment until he had a roomful of household attachments and street ornaments.

One night Hook was passing a great house where there was a reception of the swellest of the swells. Dinner had just been announced. He said to the friend accompanying him: "John, I'm going in here to spend the evening. Call for me at 11 o'clock." The friend was horrified. Said he in protest, "You do not know these grand people, and you are not an invited guest." "That's all right. Call for me at 11." Knocking at the door, he gave his hat confidently to the lackey and was ushered upstairs. Entering the drawing room, he affected at first to have discovered his mistake and poured such sallies of wit that the host and hostess actually pressed him to stay for dinner.

At 11 o'clock, when his friend called, not knowing whether he would find Hook at the reception or in the lockup, he was more than astounded on entering the drawing room to see Hook seated at the piano delivering some extempore poetry to a bevy of the fairest women in the gathering. Perceiving the entrance of this friend, the practical joker, who had not hitherto divulged his name, arose and said:

"I'm very much pleased with your fare,
Your cellar's as good as your cook;
My friend's Mr. Terry, the player,
And I'm Mr. Theodore Hook."

The king, being present and full of enjoyment, took a great fancy to Hook and immediately appointed him treasurer to the island of the Mauritius with a salary of $10,000 a year.—New York Press.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

Wilmington People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Wilmington who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Wilmington. Here's Wilmington testimony:

B. R. King, the well known policeman, residing at 706 Wooster street, Wilmington, N. C., says: "I had terrible pain in my back, which worked around to my side and in my stomach, so bad at times that it laid me up. I used internal medicines and they did not help me. I put on plasters and rubbed it with liniment, and none of them helped me. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills recommended I got a box of them at Bellamy's drug store. The next day after commencing to use them I noticed relief. Since using two boxes I have not had an ache or pain in my back. It is with pleasure that I add my name to those endorsing the claims made for this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents, Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

LENGTH OF THE DAYS

Difference Between the Star Day and the Sun Day.

IT IS GREATEST IN WINTER.

Why the Difference Occurs and How It May Be Observed—Oddly Enough the Shortest Day In the Year Is Really the Longest Day In Time.

How long, after all, is a day? The geographies say that it is the time required for the earth to turn once on its axis, that it measures twenty-four hours by the clock and that a fraction more than 365 of them are to be found in a year.

It is a good plan when one reads anything in a book to test it when he can for himself. We want to see just how long it takes the earth to turn over once. Let us take any one of the fixed stars that chances to be in line with some convenient point and, watch in hand, notice the precise moment at which the star touches, let us say, a particular tree, branch or steeple on the horizon line. If on the next evening we stand at precisely the same spot and sight the same star again in line with the same point as before, then we shall know that the earth has turned on its axis just once.

Curiously enough, however, we shall discover, if this is done carefully, that, in spite of what the books say, it does not require twenty-four hours for the earth to turn over once. About four minutes before the day is up, by the clock, the earth has revolved once and brought the star back to its old position in the sky. Really, then, the earth turns on its axis once in twenty-three hours, fifty-six minutes and four seconds and, as one can easily reckon, makes something more than 366 revolutions in a year.

But human beings are not so much interested in the stars as in the sun. We really don't care much how long it takes the earth to turn over and bring a star back again to the same point in the sky or how many times in a year a star seems to go by. We set our clocks and reckon our year by the turning of the earth under the sun, and because the earth not only turns under the sun, but also goes round it, it takes about four minutes longer to bring the sun up to its old place in the sky than to bring back a star. This comes about simply enough. Suppose one is in a room looking out the window at a tree. If he turns round once exactly he will find himself looking straight at the tree again, but if he tried the same thing when he was on a moving train he would find that while he was making the turn the tree had fallen behind. He would then, according to the way he twirled, have to turn a little more or a little less to bring the tree straight before his nose.

Therefore it is not quite true that a day is the time required for the earth to turn once on its axis. It really is this time plus the four minutes or so required for it to turn and look back at the sun. The time required for this extra turn is not the same at all times in the year. One can easily see in the case of the moving train that the faster the cars were moving or the nearer the track the tree stood the more the latter would seem to shift its position. Since the earth is some 3,000,000 miles nearer the sun in winter than in summer, and since also the nearer the sun it is the faster it travels, the difference between star day and sun day is greatest in winter.

Oddly enough, it happens that Dec. 22, which has the least daylight of any day in the year and is therefore commonly said to be the shortest of all days, is really the longest. It does, as a matter of fact, run almost half a minute over twenty-four hours, while the true shortest day, which comes on Sept. 17, falls short by about the same time.

So we really have three different "days." There is the star day, which is the time during which the earth turns over once. This, because the earth spins steadily, is always the same length, twenty-three hours, fifty-six minutes, four and nine-hundredths seconds, and there are 366 of them in a year. Then there is the ordinary legal day, which is the time required for a proper clock to get round twice. This is just twenty-four hours. Besides these, there is the sun day, its time told by the sundial, which, taking short with long, averages twenty-four hours, but is never found to be exactly the same length for two days in succession.

There is a string of long days in the winter, followed by a series of short ones in the spring. In the summer the sun days get long again, though not quite so long as in the winter. In the autumn come the shortest days of all. Only occasionally are clock day and sun day of the same length. Only four times a year do clock noon by the clock hands and sun noon by the sundial occur at the same moment, while, because the long and short sun days are found in sets, they oftentimes may be more than fifteen minutes apart.

The vast majority of the people reckon their time by the sun. But time for civilized men is time by the clock. The days are all twenty-four hours long, and no matter where the sun is it is noon for us when the clock strikes 12. Nevertheless, astronomers often go by star time, get in an extra day in each year and have their noon fall at all times of the day or night.—H. T. Brewster in Chicago Record-Herald.

How Pietro Paid His Debt.

By SADA B. CUSHMAN.

Copyright, 1907, by Mary McKeon.

Pietro eyed wistfully the shining shoes that passed him on the dry pavements. Business was slack and Pietro's heart sank as low as the hoard of silver in his tattered purse. If it would only rain, then the gentlemen hurrying by might need his services, but the blinking stars, half hidden by the smoke of the great city, found not a cloud behind which to retire, and Pietro concluded that he might as well close up for the night. The process of closing up consisted of packing his brushes, blacking and various implements into a small box and slinging the same by a strap from his shoulder.

One watching Pietro's closing up could determine the proceeds of the day's business. If he moved with alacrity, the jingling silver in his purse promised well for the necessities of life; if he moved reluctantly, pausing now and then to see if perchance there might yet be a patron for him, the purse was lamentably light and Pietro's supper must be likewise. Tonight he knew that the persistent craving in his stomach must go entirely unappeased, for there was no more than enough silver to satisfy the voraciousness of Isenberg, the money shark, of Water street, into whose clutches the lad had fallen and who found means of exacting his dues even though there was no money left for food.

"Aw, no use kicking," remarked Pietro philosophically as he stowed away his last brush; "I've seed worser luck dan dis here. Anyhow mother ain't cold nor hungry."

His philosophy deserted him as the poignant memory of the great soft eyes of his mother, wistful with longing for the sunshine of her own land, returned to him. His own eyes filled with unwonted tears, shutting out for a moment the sight of the stream of gay humanity that thronged past on its way to the opera. He did not see the tall young fellow with the debonair air and shabby coat who paused for an instant beside him nor did he notice the evident struggle that went on in the young man's mind as, with a glance at the dirty face of the urchin and another at the brilliantly lighted entrance of the opera house, he hurried on. He must be quick or there would be left not even standing room, which was all that he could afford to pay for. At the ticket window a fat old gentleman was wrangling over his tickets.

The enforced delay gave the young man time to think, and the face of the street child, pathetic through all its dirt, would not be banished. When the old gentleman had relieved his mind and turned away, the ticket seller looked at Grayson expectantly; but, with a muttered malediction at his chicken heart, as he chose to term it, Grayson turned away. Pietro was trudging wearily down the street toward that part of the city from which the rich flee and where the poor and the wicked find refuge. Revolving in his mind the weary question of finances, he did not heed the approaching footsteps until a hand grasped him unceremoniously and a voice asked gruffly:

"What were you crying for, kid?"

"Aw, what yer givin' us, dude? I warn't cryin'."

"All right, but what's wrong? Bankrupt?" with a quizzical glance at the other's stock in trade.

"Nope," replied Pietro. "Got my outfit left. That's about all, though. Business is pretty dead now. Be better after election."

Grayson laughed.

"That's right. I find it so myself. What do you say to a good hot steak in here?"

They were passing a little restaurant, and the aroma of hot coffee and frying meat floated out to them, reminding Grayson that his evening meal had been dispensed with to make up the amount necessary for his admittance to the land of heart's desire and causing the nostrils of his companion to twitch like a rabbit's.

"Sure, but dis is a bum joint. Come to Maginty's. It's swell there."

They went to Maginty's, and over a cup of strong coffee and their steak and potatoes Pietro became confidential and told Grayson the story of his struggles, first to provide necessities for his dying mother and then to escape the clutches of the money lender, from whom he had borrowed money that his mother might have a burial fit for a human being.

When Grayson, familiar with the ways of the wily money lenders, discovered that the amount had been returned with triple interest, he took the matter into his own hands, and the money lender, looking at those same strong clinched hands, admitted that he had asked Pietro to call again only that he might give him a receipt for the full amount of his debt.

Loath to part with his amusing companion, Grayson invited him to share his dingy lodgings for the night, and Grayson's comrades significantly tapped their foreheads at this latest eccentricity of their friend, for, though they were possessed of numerous eccentricities of their own, as men of genius must ever be, surely even they might deem it the hallmark of insanity to take from the street a ragged youngster and give him a glimpse of better things through the medium of a mode of life that to these young men of mighty ambitions seemed drearily poverty stricken.

From the point of view of the man on the pile of straw, the shoddy mattress seems luxurious, while to the man on the shoddy nothing seems worth while but one of floss. Added to Grayson's inexplicable treatment of the dago kid, they told the story of his hallucinations — how in the still nights he claimed to hear bursts of exquisite melody such as only the great masters of music might dream and, dreaming, reproduce. Grayson was only a humble student, and, try as he might, he could not reproduce those haunting melodies that would give him no rest. With his awakening the melodies were stilled, and only their echoes, like the half remembered taste of some childish delight, the name and substance, color and form of which we have long forgotten, remained. He haunted the opera and concerts, but he could never hear them save in his dreams. Because he dreamed these things and yet could interpret them no better than his average companion student they called him daffy. Daffy Pietro thought of him when in the wee small hours of the night he awoke and heard those glorious sounds. His first quick glance showed him that his host's bed was empty. His second showed him the figure of the young man standing full in the light of the moon, his violin in his hands, his face slightly uplifted and with a transfiguring look upon it that would have made him pass almost unrecognized among his best friends. His eyes were strange, staring, unearthly, and Pietro, encountering them, shuddered and dived under the coverlet, where he lay trembling, awaiting to feel the hands of his uncanny host upon him. Seconds passed, seeming like hours to him. The flood of harmony still poured on uninterrupted, and he peeped cautiously forth again and forgot his fear in his keen enjoyment. Pietro's ancestors had been ministers of the gospel of music, though he did not know it, and his ear drank in those exquisite sounds greedily, though his ignorant brain knew nothing of their worth.

Days passed, and Pietro was still a guest in Grayson's lodgings. The man had taken a fancy to him and dreaded the loneliness that must follow his departure. Pietro's business affairs had improved. The election was over, as he reminded Grayson, who replied that he could see no marked improvement in his own affairs. Pietro answered sagely that "a feller never kin tell. I was pretty hard up that night me an' you first seed each other, an' now, see, I made a dollar an' a quarter today, an' you kin have it well's not."

"Thanks," replied Grayson, declining the proffered silver. "You're a pretty good pal of mine, aren't you, Pete?"

Grayson spent a good many of his spare moments teaching the boy to play on one of his violins and was surprised and gratified at his rapid comprehension. His own affairs looked darker as the days went by. The employment he had found to help him through his music course was taken away, and he was left stranded. Coming in one day after a weary round of disappointments, the sight of the boy handling his most cherished violin, which no one else had a right to touch, angered him unreasonably. Before he had time to remonstrate the boy had commenced to play, and at the first notes the man stood spellbound. Slowly, uncertainly, with many blunders, the child played, and Grayson listened to one of his own dream pieces. He was bitterly disappointed that this child, this waif of the streets, whom he had befriended should have heard his music and, having heard, had been given the power to interpret it, though imperfectly.

"You thieving brat!" he exclaimed, grasping the lad roughly. "Where did you learn that? Who taught you my music?"

"Aw, cut it out!" said Pietro, wriggling away like an eel. "You learned me yer old squeaks yerself in de night when youse git dem bughouse fits on."

He told of the many nights he had awakened to the sound of music and struggled to reproduce it. He ended with a request, uttered with an elaborate carelessness that failed to conceal his real earnestness, that Grayson teach him to become "one of dem sure 'nough fiddler chaps." Grayson, with the harmony rippling through his brain, ready at last to be put upon paper to open up a brilliant pathway to its author's success, gravely shook his hand and answered, "Sure!"

Changed His Motto.

A southern representative in congress is reputed to be of such a persuasive manner that, no matter what party may be in power, he outdoes his colleagues in procuring favors for his constituents.

One afternoon the statesman was met by a newspaper man. "Well, major," asked the latter, "how many appointments and appropriations have you arranged for today? We all know your way of getting everything that you go after."

"Nothing today," responded the representative rather wearily. "My experience this time reminds me of the old Confederate soldier that I knew in Tennessee. 'I went into this war,' said he, 'with the motto "Veni, vidi, vici," and I came out vice versa.'"—St. Louis Republic.

How They Fooled the Preacher.

When our grandmothers arranged to have chicken for Sunday dinner—for the preacher—they picked out the biggest and fattest and toughest old hen on the place Saturday afternoon and had the boys and dogs "run her down." A tough old hen that is chased all over the place and frightened out of her life is as tender as a spring lamb when cooked. Fright makes any animal, bird or fowl tender, so the books say, and it appears from this that our grandmothers knew what they were about when they had the tough old hens chased before killing.—El Dorado (Kan.) Republican.

St. George and the Dragon.

Other nations besides England have fought under the banner of St. George, and other knightly orders as well as that of the Garter have been instituted in his honor. He was the guardian saint of Sicily, Aragon, Valencia, Genoa, Malto and Barcelona; a Venetian order of St. George was created in 1200, a Spanish in 1317, an Austrian in 1470, a Genoese in 1472 and a Roman in 1492. More modern orders bearing his name are those of Bavaria (1729), Russia (1767) and Hanover (1839). The device of St. George slaying the dragon forms part of the arms of the czar and appears on several Russian coins. The conjecture that this was owing to the presentation of the Garter by Elizabeth to Ivan Vassilievitch has no foundation in fact, for Chancelor, the first outspoken Englishman to visit Russia, speaks of a dispatch sent in 1554 from Ivan Vassilievitch to Queen Mary, the seal of which "was much like the broad seal of England, having on the one side the image of a man on horseback in complete harness fighting with a dragon."—London Chronicle.

Queer Positions of Hearts.

There is one curious fact which not everybody notices about the common, finger-long, green caterpillars of our larger moths. Their hearts, instead of being in front, are at the back of the body and extend along the entire length of the animal. One can see the heart distinctly through the thin skin and can watch its slow beat, which starts at the tail and moves forward to the head. Hearts of this sort reaching from head to tail are not at all uncommon in the simpler creatures. The earthworm has one, and so have most worms, caterpillars and other crawling things. Hearts in the middle of the back also are quite as frequent as those in what seems to us to be the natural place. Many animals, the lobster for example, and the crayfish and the crab, which have short hearts like those of the beasts and birds, nevertheless have them placed just under the shell in what, in ourselves, would be the small of the back.—St. Nicholas.

—Rocky Mount, Nov. 5.—The banks of Rocky Mount adopted clearing house methods Saturday, and will not pay more than $25 in currency in any one day, or more than $100 in any week on checks drawn by a depositor.

—Waynesville N. C., Nov. 5.—In the election Saturday Haywood gave a majority of 333 in favor of bonds for the transcontinental railroad. It is understood that work on this line of railroad will commence here in a very short time, going towards Knoxville, Tenn.

—Rocky Mount, Nov. 5.—Last week Olivia May, the 5-year-old daughter of W. H. Griffin, of Red Oak, was burned to death. While the child's mother was out of the room its clothes became ignited from the fireplace. The mother heard its cries and hastened to its assistance. She was badly burned in trying to extinguish the flames.

—Louisburg, Nov. 5.—The two banks today adopted the plan pursued by other trading markets of the State. Certificates will be issued instead of cash, although every seller of cotton and tobacco will receive as much as $10 in cash for each check presented to the amount of cotton or tobacco sold. Both banks are perfectly sound and have ample currency to meet all obligations promptly. The First National alone has twenty-five per cent more cash on hand and three times as much in reserve as required by the government. The Farmers and Merchants also is equally as safe.

—Ayden Correspondence Greenville Reflector: Gum wood, which has heretofore been considered of little use, and of which there are vast quantities in our section, is now demanding excellent prices. R. H. and A. B. Garris last week sold the Ayden Lumber Company the privilege of a tract of land estimated to contain one million feet for $6,250. How is that for something never before known to bring a cent to the pocket of the farmers? There are thousands of acres in this county that will in the next few years contribute millions of dollars to our people, and that, too, when it was never more badly needed and its good effect felt all among us. What is to the interest of one is certainly conducive to the welfare of others, in this particular at least.

—Raleigh News and Observer, Nov. 6: Hattie Hall, a colored woman, better known as "Louella" Hall, walked into a room at the residence of Bob Green, colored, yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock and shot Mary Clegg, a negro woman, in the face, because she found her in a compromising position with her husband, "Bud" Hall. She immediately came to the sheriff's office and surrendered, telling what she had done, and was taken to Justice of the Peace H. H. Roberts, who, after a preliminary hearing, committed the Hall woman to jail in default of bond of $200. It is thought the bond will be made today. The ball took effect in the Clegg woman's left jaw, but after investigation, Justice Roberts did not think the wound at all dangerous.

—Asheville, Nov. 5.—The remains of Frank Ferrell, 70 years of age, en route from Spray to Oklahoma, with his wife, seven children and several valuable dogs, were found between Statesville and Elmwood this morning. Mrs. Ferrell and the children arrived here shortly after midnight this morning without money for their expenses, and Mrs. Ferrell almost frantic over the disappearance of her husband. It seems that the family had left their old home at Spray for a return to Oklahoma, and that Mr. Ferrell made several trips to the baggage car before reaching Statesville to see if his dogs were all right. After the train left Statesville he again started for the baggage car to look after his dogs, and this was the last time he was seen alive.

He Fought at Gettysburg.

David Parker, of Fayette, N. Y., who lost a foot at Gettysburg, writes: "Electric Bitters have done me more good than any medicine I ever took. For several years I had stomach trouble, and paid out much money for medicine to little purpose, until I began taking Electric Bitters. I would not take $500 for what they have done for me." Grand tonic for the aged and for female weaknesses. Great alterative and body builder; sure cure for lame back and weak kidneys. Guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy, druggist. 50c.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Nov. 6.—The small volume of transactions in stocks today was the index of how far financial conditions still hamper the conduct of operations in the market, but the strong upward tendency of prices was a convincing evidence of the returning confidence on values of securities. Reselling of stocks taken on by powerful financiers in periods of demoralization to check it and to support values, was discerned at the advance today, according to the opinion of skilled observers in the board room. The impression was that this selling might have an admonitory intention against too sudden speculative activity in the market with the money situation still short of being entirely corrected. The response of the bond market to the brighter outlook was as decided as that for stocks. The money market showed the effect of the arrival of the first consignment of over $7,000,000 of imported gold, and the scarcity of currency was reported somewhat relieved from the same cause, the premium on currency not being so high as last week.

The passing of the control of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company to the United States Steel Corporation had a strengthening effect on the stocks of that corporation, but it was considered of even greater importance in opening a method of settlement for trust company conditions by substitution of more readily marketable collateral for loans in that field.

Suspension of some small interior banks made a bad impression, and a failure in the New England cotton goods trade even more so. The latter influence caused considerable reaction in prices late in the day.

Bonds were buoyant in tone. Total sales, par value, $2,766,000. United States 3s, coupon, advanced 1-4 per cent on call. Total sales today, 440,500 shares.

THE COTTON MARKET

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Nov. 6.—The cotton market was irregular today with the close steady at a net decline of 13 to 17 points. Sales were estimated at 300,000 bales.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 7 points which was better than due on the disappointing Liverpool cables. There was some long cotton for sale on the call but immediately afterward the market advanced on covering by Wall street shorts and a renewal of December bull support on which December shot up to 10.94 and January to 10.55 or about 20 points above the opening figures and 12 points over the closing prices of Monday. Offerings increased on the bulge and during the afternoon the market was weak under selling by brokers who were supposed to represent one of the leading outside interests and under reports that one of the large New England print works had gone into the hands of receivers. The close was within 2 to 4 points of the lowest on the active winter and spring months with the exception of December which closed at the bottom and while the final tone was steady the demand was mostly for covering shorts. The weather over the holiday was considered favorable and there was no change in the character of Southern spot news.

Receipts at the ports today were 53,000 bales against 51,287 last week and 71,871 last year. For the week 345,000 bales against 340,646 last week and 423,218 last year.

Spot cotton closed steady 10 points decline. Middling uplands 11.00; middling gulf 11.25; sales —

DRY GOODS MARKET.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Nov. 6.—The dry goods trade was severely shocked by the receivership appointed for the Arnold Print Works. There will be a meeting of Southern yarn spinners tomorrow to decide whether to begin a limited curtailment. Trade for the day was generally quiet, although many buyers were in. They operated in a cautious way.

BELLE of VIRGINIA

BLENDED RYE

Belle of Virginia Rye deserves its name, and the name is certainly one of distinction and old-time aristocracy. It's a whiskey we are proud of on account of its purity and high quality and its hosts of admiring friends who will drink nothing else. Belle of Virginia is a blend—a scientific, uniform blend of pure, old goods. It's a whiskey with a flavor, and a fine, invigorating after-effect long to be remembered by those who drink it. Try it and you will make no mistake.

TIGHT MONEY CAUSES CRASH

Receivers Appointed For Arnold Print Works of North Adams Massachusetts.

LIABILATRES ARE $8,680,935

Company Could Not Renew Maturing Loans to Keep Factory Running. One of Largest Textile Plants In United States.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Boston, Mass., Nov. 6.—Henry H. Warner, of this city, was appointed receiver for the Arnold Print Works, at North Adams, in the United States Circuit Court today. It is understood that the cause of the embarrassment was the inability of the company to renew maturing loans held by savings banks.

The petition for the receiver was brought by President Houghton, who is also the principal owner of the company.

The condition of the company on June 30, 1907, as shown by its statement to the Massachusetts Commissioner of Corporations, was as follows:

Assets—Real estate and machinery, $2,300,000; material, $3,556,810; cash and debts receivable, $2,724,489.

Liabilities—Capital stock, $1,150,000; debts, $2,619,484; surplus, profit and loss, $4,811,451.

North Adams, Mass., Nov. 6.—At the office of the Arnold Print Works in this city no information was forthcoming today regarding the financial difficulties of the company. It was stated that all of the officials of the company were too busy to talk; that no statement of assets and liabilities was ready, and that until matters had been gone over carefully nothing could be said.

The Arnold Print Works is one of the largest textile manufacturing plants in the State, its employes numbering in the vicinity of 6,000.

New York, Nov 6.—It was said at the New York office of the Arnold Print Works today that the company had no statement to make, at this time, regarding its embarrassment.

Later Estimate.

North Adams, Mass., Nov. 6.—Henry E. Warner, of Boston, was appointed receiver of the Arnold Print Works, of this city, one of the largest textile concerns in the country, by the United States Circuit Court at Boston today. The corporation has a large printing factory here with offices in New York and Boston, and owns the Beaver and Eclipse Cotton Mills of North Adams, the Williamstown Manufacturing Company's Mills, of Williamstown, and the North Pownall Manufacturing Company's mills of North Pownall, Vt.

The corporation has liabilities of $9,500,000 and assets estimated at $15,000,000. Of the liabilities $6,500,000 is represented by promissory and obligations to banks. The corporation is declared to be solvent, but owing to the stringency of the money market it was obliged to have a receiver appointed in order to conserve its interests. The mills and print works have been doing an immense business, and, according to the receiver will continue in operation. The printworks and allied mills employ 6,000 hands.

FIFTEEN KILLED ON WARSHIP.

Terrible Explosion of Boilers of German Torpedo Boat.

(By Cable to the Morning Star.)

Kiel, Nov. 6.—The boilers of the German school ship Blucher exploded this morning while the vessel was near Murwyck. It is stated that 15 men were killed and 30 dangerously injured. The Blucher is the German torpedo school ship. She was built at Kiel in 1877 and usually has on board about 260 officers and men. Her armament consists of several old 5.9-inch Krupp guns and some smaller, quick-firing guns.

At a late hour tonight 10 bodies had been found on board the school ship and a roll call showed that no other men were missing. Several of the wounded men are not expected to recover. Three hundred of the crew were absent manoeuvering with the tenders at the time of the explosion.

Washington, Nov. *.—Upon learning of the disaster to the German government vessel Blucher, Secretary Metcalf sent a cablegram to Lieutenant-Commander W. L. Howard, American naval attache at Berlin, directing him to express to the officials of the German navy the sympathy of the American navy over the loss of life and the wounding of so many men.

BLANCHARD WON'T CONTEND

Lieutenant Governor Sanders Stole March on Him.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 6.—Governor Blanchard this afternoon announced that he would not interfere with the programme of corporation legislation proposed by Lieutenant Governor Sanders during Governor Blanchard's recent visit to the Jamestown Exposition. Shortly before leaving Louisiana, Governor Blanchard issued a proclamation calling for an extra session of the Legislature and proposing certain reform legislation which had been advocated by opponents of Lieutenant Governor Sanders in the latter's candidacy for the governorship. While Governor Blanchard was at the exposition, Lieutenant Governor Sanders, as acting governor, issued another proclamation calling for legislation additional to that proposed by Governor Blanchard, and laid special stress upon enlarging the power of the State Railroad Commission.

Raymond Hitchcock Had Not Fled Justice—Had Nervous Prostration and Could Not Attend Court to Answer Serious Charges.

New York, Nov. 6.—Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, who disappeared several days ago after he had been indicted on charges preferred by several girls, appeared at the Criminal Court building today and went to the office of the district attorney. Hitchcock is under bond to appear in court this afternoon.

Since Hitchcock's disappearance the police of the entire eastern section of the United States and Canada have been searching for him, but not a trace was found and absolutely nothing of his whereabouts was known to the public until he made his appearance at the Criminal Court building today. He went directly to the district attorney's office from whence, accompanied by his wife and counsel, he was taken to the Court of General Sessions, where bail was fixed at $7,500.

Hitchcock was arraigned upon only one of the six indictments against him, to which he pleaded not guilty. Bail was furnished. Hitchcock was paroled in custody of his counsel upon the other five indictments.

Counsel for Hitchock said the actor had not been out of New York since his disappearance was reported but had been suffering from nervous prostration as a result of the charges made against him. Today, he said, was the first day he had really been able to go out of doors.

Hitchcock looked pale and haggard and showed signs of illness. To his friends he said he had decided to face his accusers and try to win back the confidence of his friends and the public.

"I am innocent," he said, "and the only way for me to prove it is to stand trial. I am prepared to fight it out now and I'll go through with it."

While Hitchcock was in court his wife remained in the district attorney's office weeping and in semi-hysterical condition.

Hitchcock resumed his role at the Astor Theatre tonight and was given a rousing welcome by the audience. An affecting scene occurred between the actor and his wife on the stage.

HEARST IS ELIMINATED

Result of New York Election—Republicans Carry Brooklyn.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Nov. 6.—The secondary results of yesterday's elections, particularly as they may affect the political fortunes of party leadership, were thrashed out at many political meeting places tonight. Tammany leader, Charles F. Murphy, sees in the defeat of Republican and Democrat-fusion in New York county the retirement of William R. Hearst as a factor in local politics. Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff also believes that Mr. Hearst has been "everlastingly eliminated," as a political consideration and that the Independence League vote will now go to the Republicans. Mr. Woodruff basis his prediction on the result in Kings county, where the Independence League vote was lost sight of in the Republican victory over the Democrats.

On the other hand, the league vote did not go a great way in helping the Republicans in Manhattan where the fusion ticket was beaten by the straight Tammany candidates.

TROUBLE FOR OIL TRUST.

Texas Suit to Run It Out of the State.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Austin, Texas, Nov. 6.—Attorney-General Davidson today on behalf of the State of Texas, filed suit here against the alleged subsidiary concerns of the Standard Oil Company in Texas for penalties, for forfeiture of charter, and for a writ of injunction restraining the defendants from removing any of their property from Texas, and also asking for the appointment of a receiver for each of the concerns sued.

The State has issued a temporary writ of injunction against the concerns named and the application for the appointment of receivers is set for January 6, 1908, before Judge George Calhoun of the District Court.

The suits are against the Security Oil Company; the Navarro Refining Company; Standard Oil Company of Indiana; the National Transit Company, of Pennsylvania, and the Union Tank Line. Damages to the amount of $6,000,000 are asked in each case.

NAVAL STORES TRUST.

Purchasing Headquarters Go Back To Savannah.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 6.—The American Naval Stores Company today confirmed the report that Jacksonville and Pensacola will lose the naval stores business that comes to them as "open markets." All of the buying that has been done in those cities will be done at Savannah, thus bringing about a restoration of conditions that obtained up to four or five years ago, when buying agencies were established at the two Florida cities. The change was to have been immediate, but owing to the low price of turpentine and a desire to cause no further demoralization, the American Naval Stores Company today gave notice that turpentine would be bought in the Florida cities up to December 1.

Members of the family of Gustav Lehmann, Sr., the head of one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in the South, who disappeared mysteriously in New Orleans about a week ago, positively identified the body taken by divers yesterday afternoon from the Mississippi river as that of the missing merchant. The body had lodged on the bottom of the river at a point where the water is about 75 feet deep.

Other Orders on Europe for Yellow Metal—Arrangements Made to Take Care of Two Embarrassed Trust Companies.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, Nov. 6.—The general conditions of the financial situation were favorable today. The runs on the trust companies had practically ceased under the encouraging influence of the support of the trust company committee, gold engagements were further increased and the stock market rose buoyantly in recognition of those conditions.

The announcement by Mr. King, president of the Union Trust Company, early in the morning, that an agreement had at last been reached by which the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust Company were to deposit their stock in the hands of a committee of the trust company presidents, and in consideration of this were to receive all the support required, finally cleared the air in regard to the trust company situation.

Grave apprehension existed as to the termination of the conference at Mr. Morgan's house at 3 o'clock this morning, that an agreement in regard to the two trust companies would not be reached and that they might be subjected to a run too strong for their impaired resources. Now that this danger is removed, it is believed that the situation will gradually simmer down, with the continuous arrival of gold, until the stringency is converted into the plethora of reserve money in banks, which usually follows a crisis.

Additional gold engagements were announced today of $1,000,000 on account of Lazard Freres, and $500,000 for Montreal. This brings up the total gold engagement for America on the recent movement to $37,500,000, which would afford the amount required for legal reserve against deposits of $150,000,000. The gold which arrived yesterday was deposited today and that by the Lusitania will soon be in the vaults of the banks.

While there is still some apprehension regarding the possible effort of the Bank of England to check the outflow of gold from London by raising its discount rate on Thursday, there is a strong feeling among conservative financiers here that the directors of the Bank of England will be very reluctant to fix a rate of discount which has not been reached since 1873. It must have been found necessary to overcome this reluctance if the Bank of France had not so generously dipped into its immense reserves, under the enlightened policy of Governor Pallain, by the purchase of sterling bills to the amount of £3,000,000 to relieve the London market.

The strength of the stock market was the reflex of improved feeling throughout the financial community. It is believed that the stock market has pretty well discounted the worst and that prices are not likely to go much lower, even in case of new disturbances. It is understood that the arrangement by which the committee of the trust company presidents takes control of the majority stock of the Trust Company of America and the Lincoln Trust Company, is only a temporary device to re-establish confidence. What will be the ultimate disposition of this stock has not yet been seriously considered, but it is certain that the trust company committee and the clearing house committee will insist that these companies pursue in future a policy of the strictest conservatism and shall not embark in any underwritings which are not capable of being converted readily into cash.

A Knocker That Meant Life.

So cruel were some of the punishments meted out to criminals in England centuries ago that it was small wonder the poor wretches claimed the "right of sanctuary." If they reached a church or some other privileged place the law could not touch them. A curious relic in connection with this custom exists today in the form of the quaint knocker on the door of Durham cathedral. The applicant having hammered at the portal, one of the priests inside would inspect him through the eyes of the copper mask above the knocker and after due parley would admit the frightened criminal.

Following Instructions.

"Here, my poor man," said a kind old lady, "here is a shilling for you. Now don't go and spend it in vile drink."

"Thank you, ma'am," answered the tramp heartily, "I'll not. I suppose you was a-referring to the wretched stuff they 'as at the Dun Cow, mum? Ah, but I'll go to the Black Bull. They keep the right sort there!"—London Spectator.

REPUBLICAN VICTORIES

Elected Governor in Kentucky by 14,000 and Also Governor in New Jersey by 7,000—Maryland Democratic by 7,000.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 6.—Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., Democratic candidate for Governor of New Jersey today, conceded the election of John Franklin Fort, his Republican opponent, and made the following statement:

"From the somewhat incomplete returns furnished I believe that Judge Fort has been elected. I have sent him my congratulations. I greatly appreciate the support given me and the efforts of my friends in my behalf."

The following is a copy of the dispatch sent to Judge Fort:

"John Franklin Fort, East Orange, N. J.

"I send you my congratulations and best wishes for a successful administration.

(Signed.)

"FRANK S. KATZEMBACH, JR."

The latest figures give the State to Judge Fort by about 7,000. This change was brought about by the reduced Democratic majority in Hudson county. Last night it was announced that Mr. Katzenbach had carried Hudson county by 15,000. The revised figures, as semi-officially compiled today, give Mr. Katzenbach only 6,900.

Late returns do not change the complexion of the State Senate which gives the Republicans 14 to 7 for the Democratic ticket. The vote in Middlesex county is very close, with the chances that two of the three Democratic assemblymen from Hudson, Monmouth, Hunterdon, Sussex and Warren will make the assembly stand 40 Republicans and 20 Democrats. Notwithstanding that gubernatorial candidate Katzenbach carried Essex county by about 300 the entire Republican Legislative ticket in that county has been elected.

Kentucky Republican.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—Returns from 110 out of 119 counties indicate that the majority of Augustus E. Wilson, Republican, for governor, over S. W. Hager is 14,000. The Legislature is still in doubt but the Democrats will probably have a small majority on joint ballot.

Jas. F. Grimstead, Republican, was elected mayor of Louisville over Owen Tyler, Democrat, by 9,683.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 6.—Republicans and independents today decided to contest with the Democrats the result of yesterday's election for every city and county office voted for. Wholesale frauds will be charged.

Maryland Democratic.

Baltimore, Nov. 6.—Incomplete but reliable indicative returns show that the Democrats have elected Judge Austin L. Crothers governor and the entire State ticket by an estimated plurality of about 9,469. The Legislature appears to be safely Democratic. Ex-Governor John Walter Smith defeated Governor Edwin Warfield and Congressman J. W. C. Talbot promaries for the long term United States Senatorship beginning in 1909. Senator William Pinckney Whyte was unopposed and will succeed himself for the short term. Senator Whyte was appointed at the death of the Senator Gorman until the Legislature should choose a successor.

TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE ENDS

Operators in New York and Chicago Give Up Fight.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Chicago, Nov. 6.—At a meeting of the leaders of the Commercial Telegraphers Union today it was decided to call off the strike of the operators against the Western and Postal Telegraph companies. About 300 men applied to the companies today for reinstatement.

New York, Nov. 6.—At a meeting of the local branch of the Telegraphers late today it was decided to "suspend" the strike of the employes of the telegraph companies which has been on since August 12.
